I feel bad about giving a thumbs-down, because I appreciate the effort and scope of this game. I found the game mechanics to be poorly explained, with very little in the way of online resources to help me learn the game within the 2 hours I had to refund. Which is a shame, because the game seems to have a ton of potential, with complex progression & management systems. My attempts to start a game were met with brutal failure by the time my 1st battles came around, which may well be my own inability to comprehend how to get a good start going. But If I make mistakes, I like to get some indication of WHAT those mistakes were so I can learn to do better on future attempts. I want to like this game, and might purchase it again in the future and then re-write this review. As it is right now I can't recommend it for anyone who doesn't have the patience to go through a lot of trial and error to figure out how to succeed.. A Great game. Has a surprising amount of death almost like football manager or OOTP in space and a lot more bloody and violent. Some people may not like the setting shift from ancient roman times to the future but I personally liked it. If you are into sports management games you will like this. It's a fun twist on the typical setting and formula. Also the dev support for this game is great too. I had a bug with my save game and I told the dev and he fixed it for me. I was impressed. A fun little game with good support.. I do not like this game much. It feels unfinished.. I played this game, unsure what to expect as I had not played the first Age of Gladiators. But, I figured "Why not?" and shoved some money at it. The short and simple: I'm going to have to give this one a Negative Review, alas. It has potential, but unfortunately I bought a game expecting a complete, interesting product and this one just didn't deliver. Why didn't I like it? There is not enough ways to differentiate your characters or really effect them, at least in the short time I played. The gameplay, i.e. the choices you make, are all pretty bland and seem to be very granular and not enough interesting abilities/feats/crunch Non-auto resolved combats are too long and tedious for my tastes. In conclusion: Keep in mind, this game isn't TERRIBLE. It really is not. But at the 20$ price point with the content it has (and bear in mind, TIME WISE there is a lot, but its mostly grind and very little actual meaningful decisions) it just doesn't merit a thumbs up.. I love it. Like a Sport-Management-Game.but here you can kill your opponents!. To all interested in this software i believe it to be an excellent management sim, with a mix of spreadsheets, which is not extreme in either and is not perfect in both. It has a learning curve, and it has management features. It is also based on a small niche genre of games, and even moreso in a unique futuristic setting. I honestly might not like some aspects, but i love the game, its concept, its setting ,and the dev for going a unique way instead of mass produced over saturated glut in games we see all the time. Pros and cons are as follows: PROS: management and fun, mixed into one good graphics for what is there good balance between sim and fun Cons: some stuff annoys me, based on personal and other reasons. nothing that game is at fault for. I probably should not have even included it in cons final score, in a 1 through ten setting: 8.7/10 i would recommend you get it, if not for the game itself, but for the dev, who has a unique idea, a good concept, and a skillful way of implementing it, and i hope we can vote with our wallets, by supporting the dev and buying the game. I know this has a great future ahead of it and the dev too. I wish him and his creative visions the best. Buy it even at full price. you won't regret it. And if you do, just refund it.
